Subject: A meal for Mum

Hi Jamal,

I cooked a special meal for Mum yesterday, which I prepared in the kitchen. It was too cold to eat in the garden, but it was nice and warm in the dining room.

Mum likes lamb, but I'm more confident with chicken, which was the safest choice! She usually orders fish in restaurants, although it's easy to make mistakes cooking it.

Dad suggested using a recipe book, but looking online was quicker. Green's Supermarket is more expensive than Central, but has fresher food, so we went there. It's bigger than Newmarket too.

My sister put flowers on the table and arranged the dishes. My aunty arrived when I was chopping vegetables. Mum knew she was bringing my grandparents, but my big brother came too, which she wasn't expecting!

After the meal, Dad drove us into town, and we parked by the cinema. We walked to the river where he'd booked a boat trip!

Subject: My new friend

Hi Auntie Alison,

Guess what? I've made a new friend at school! His name's Pedro, and we're going to be in the same science class. We got talking in the school canteen last week. Pedro said the tuna rolls Mum had made looked delicious, then he offered me some of the strawberries he'd brought.

Pedro told me about his previous school. It's called Southside, and it's in Newton, where his house was. He's very clever! Maths is something he has no problems with, unlike languages, and he finds geography easy. He was interested to hear about the tennis team and how much fun we have. I heard the volleyball team is looking for players too, so he might join.

Pedro has got brothers like me but his are older, whereas my two are still at primary school. And we both have one younger sister. Pedro's home is near mine, so maybe we'll walk to school together. At the moment, he gets a lift and it sometimes makes his mum late. She works in the same hospital as my dad, as a chef though, not a nurse like him.

I offered to show Pedro around school, to the library for example, but he says the most helpful thing is to introduce him to people, so I'll do that. We're also making plans for Saturday. We wanted to go skating, but we'll go shopping instead, as it's going to rain at the weekend.

Bye for now – I've homework to finish before supper. I'll write again soon!

5 Read the information about five people (a–e) and the eight reviews of local parks (1–8).

Which local park should each person choose?

For each person (a–e), write the correct number (1–8) on the line.

Yasmin and her family need to get to the park by public transport. The family want somewhere to eat their own lunch and have something to do under cover if it rains.

Eric and his family hope to cycle around the park and find out about some of the animals. Eric thinks it would be fun to climb trees during his visit.

Kiera and her family want to walk near some water, on a path which Kiera's elderly grandmother can easily use. They want somewhere with shade when it's hot.

Akio and his brothers want a park where they can get ice creams while listening to live music. Their parents want to see some unusual plants.

Zohrin and her family need a playground for Zohrin's little sister. Zohrin and her dad want to do some sport in the park before they all get hot food there.

Reviews of local parks

- 1 Victoria Park
People love this park, with its beautiful plants and track around the lake that's suitable for wheelchairs and pushchairs. You can watch the birds from inside special huts, which are also great for escaping sun or rain!
- 2 Scott Park
This beautiful park has streams filled with fish and frogs, rather than the usual playgrounds for visitors. There are a few paths for walkers, with no cycles permitted, but they're rough so take care. There's also a shop selling snacks and ice-cream.
- 3 Branksome Park
There's something for everyone, including rare plants with information about their uses. There's space to play football, and you'll enjoy seeing bands on stage. There are vans selling ice-cream and cold drinks too – perfect in the sun!
- 4 Dawson Park
This park's popular with families, with its smooth paths for bikes. There are beautiful trees, some with seats underneath for sunny days, and others that you're allowed to climb. Information boards tell you about all the wildlife that lives there.
- 5 Langley Park
There's a wall around this park, so although it's near a road with buses and traffic, it's peaceful, with many plants and trees. You'll find office workers enjoying their sandwiches on the grass at lunchtime when it's not raining.
- 6 Edward Park
It's easy to spend hours here, with facilities for various ball games and plenty of things for younger visitors to climb on. There are also places to get everything from snacks to cooked lunches.
- 7 Kingston Park
There was once a water-garden here, complete with fountains! That's now a stage for music performances. The park's great for active people, with space for ball games and cycling, and options to get drinks and hot and cold snacks.
- 8 Collet Park
Collet Park's right next to the station. If you're bringing little children then remember snacks, as there's no café. There are tables you can use inside a modern building, where you'll also find various activities including mini golf.

A special day out

by Nancie Fujimori

I planned a surprise day out for my friend Liza, who is soon moving away with her family. We'd always celebrated birthdays together, so when she told me about the move, I wanted to arrange something special! Six friends and I started planning. We were already in a text message group together, but as that included Liza, we set a new one up without her knowing.

We talked about different options and decided on an indoor activity because the weather was bad. My parents would drive us, so we didn't need public transport. We all agreed that we wanted to do something creative even though we had different ideas about what.

When we read about a soap-making course, it sounded perfect. There'd been a soap-making factory in our town once. The library had a lot of information about it. It was famous, which is why the arts centre decided to run the sessions. I got stressed trying to find one with eight spaces, but managed finally, and I was excited to see what Liza thought. She was really grateful and couldn't stop smiling!

On the course, we were shown things to add to soap, even coffee and fruit! The roses I went for were a popular choice; Liza's soap with lemon smelled amazing.

Afterwards, we went to a restaurant called Tom's. We all like different foods, so we'd picked somewhere with a large choice. Most places in town are good value, but as we were quite a big group, we needed one with enough room and there's always plenty at Tom's. We all enjoyed it – my pizza was really spicy! In fact, they made me two, because the first was cold when it reached the table.

We all went home with soap in beautiful boxes. Liza had a fantastic time and took loads of photos. A week later, we each got a book of them which Liza had printed to show how much the day had meant to her.
