Material for Section A

Background

Davide and Romia Kusia live and work in Likoto City. They are planning to buy a holiday home by the sea where, at the weekend, they can relax with their daughters, Tansay (aged 15) and Noella (aged 18). They have shortlisted the following two properties.

Hacienda Reddale

This stunning, recently modernised five-bedroom detached house is located in the historic harbour town of Boatby, renowned for its classic architecture and art gallery.

Boatby has a selection of shops and is famous for its second-hand bookshops and antiques shops, as well as crafters' markets and summer music festivals. The regular farmers' markets, together with the cafés and restaurants offering local cuisine, make it a perfect location for food lovers. There is excellent road access and there are frequent rail connections to Likoto City, making it an attractive and convenient location for a weekend getaway.

Hacienda Reddale is extremely spacious with accommodation on three floors, as well as a basement. The property boasts a spacious open-plan living room/kitchen-diner, where you can relax with friends and family or hold large family events. In the basement, there is a modern air-conditioned games room, which has a home cinema and enough space for a full-sized snooker table.

Casa Carlat

Situated in an isolated location close to picturesque Marly Forest National Park, the 20 kilometres of beach provide a habitat for birds and animals, making the area a paradise for wildlife enthusiasts. Hiking and cycling trails, surfing, sea-kayaking and scuba-diving are among the popular activities in the area.

Casa Carlat is a sixteenth-century house situated on a narrow road and surrounded by fields. This three-bedroom family home requires some renovation and modernisation.

The property includes stables and there is an abundance of scenic riding trails close by. Horse-riding and dog-walking on the beach are allowed all year round.

There is a garden with an old barn which has planning permission for conversion into a single-storey home.

The nearest village, Santirum, has a small convenience store.

The only good thing is the vintage clothes shop. The community centre in Boatby shut down several years ago so there's really nothing much to do in the evenings. My friends and I used to really enjoy playing snooker there. Most of the residents are retired and seem to find the rest of us irritating! They get all excited about their summer music festivals, but all they offer is folk music. Any suggestions to include pop or rock bands are swiftly rejected. The local bands don't stand a chance. It's no wonder all my friends can't wait to leave Boatby and go somewhere with a bit more life, like Likoto City. I'll be joining them next year, once I finish school.

It's all very well being tranquil and isolated, but wait until you see the traffic on a Friday evening, with all the city dwellers driving their cars and campervans down the single narrow road to Marly Forest National Park! Lots of the trails have turned into mud where vehicles have tried to find alternative routes. The local authority, attempting to limit visitor numbers, has restricted the number of parking spaces. Great idea, in theory, but it has just encouraged people to abandon their cars anywhere. Last summer, I had to ask several people to remove their cars from my driveway, and it was sometimes impossible for me to leave my own house. Ridiculous!
